In the olden days when the world ran on horsepower not all horses were pretty. Some were downright ugly. Some looked as if they had been put together by a committee and couldn't work beans.

It was the business of horsemen to be able to spot a "good 'un." If he didn't have a good eye for a horse he could wind up owning a bunch of crock pots. And some sharp horse trader would stick him with sour apples.

The same is true today. The more things change, the more they remain the same.

Today, not all horses are pretty. Some are downright ugly. The only thing that has changed is that most horses today are registered with some breed or other. Also, most horse owners, trusting blindly that owning a registered animal means owning a good one, have not developed an eye for a horse.

Owning a quarter horse doesn't guarantee conformation like Poco Bueno. The Arab people ruefully admit there are a lot of schlock Arabs being bred. If the Nez Perce Indians still had a monopoly on Appaloosas, a lot of the spotted stallions now standing would be geldings. And Thoroughbreds? Don't even ask!

To get down to the nitty gritty of spotting a good horse, look first at the hooves. It is absolutely essential that all four point forward. It's nice if they all match. Sometimes you have to settle for two matching fronts and two matching hinds and a sharp blacksmith who can keep the twain from meeting. By match, we mean size, height of heel, angle of hoof, and the way it moves through the air. No foot, no horse.

The pastern should be roughly the same length as the toe of the hoof. The front pasterns should slope 45 to 50 degrees, the rear pasterns 50 to 55 degrees.

Consider the cannon bone and ligaments above the pastern. From the side, they should present a straight vertical oblong. Not pinched in at the top—that's tied in below the knees. Not slanted fore or aft—

that's buck kneed or calf kneed. The ligament should be as large as possible in relation to the bone, giving a "flat" appearance to the side of the leg. The circumference of the whole leg just below the knee should be at least eight inches if the horse is going to carry the weight of an adult human on his back. Eight and three-quarters inches is a good circumference for a middleweight hunter.

Above the knee is the forearm. It should be longer than the cannon bone although in some tall horses, the two become more equal. The length of the forearm should be exactly equal to the length of the shoulder.

Until you develop an eye for conformation, a measuring tape is a good item to have with you. You can even take a ruler and measure photos. Measure from the point of the shoulder to the top of the withers. Then swing around and measure from the point of the shoulder to the center of the knee. They should be equal.

Now comes the cruncher: swing around and measure from the point of the shoulder to the point of the elbow. This measures the slope of the shoulder. On a terrific horse the length of the shoulder is exactly equal to the distance from the point of the shoulder to the point of the elbow. Which means that the shoulder has a 45 degree slope.

On most horses the shoulder slopes a bit steeper than 45 degrees, so length of shoulder compared to width of shoulder is not equal. The more equal, the better. By the way, this is a handy measure to take on those photos in breed magazines which have been printed at an angle to make the shoulder look better.

Sixty-five percent of a horse's weight is borne by the front end. That's why we looked at it before looking at the hind end. The more things wrong with the horse's front, the more likely he is to break down.

Now we look at the hind end where the engine is located. The more things wrong with the horse's hindquarters, the fewer activities he can excel at. It doesn't take

To Palo Alto man

McKiernons' daughter is wed

An informal garden wedding Aug. 12 at the home of a friend united in marriage Pattie McKiernon of Palo Alto and Charles Freeman, formerly of Lake Forest, Ill., now also a Palo Alto resident.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. McKiernon of Buena Vista del Rio are parents of the bride. She grew up in the Valley and graduated from Carmel schools.

Pattie chose a pale orchid blouse worn with a long ivory skirt for her wedding attire. She carried three long-stemmed roses and presented one to the groom's mother and to her mother before the ceremony. In addition to her parents, Pattie's guests included an aunt from Pocatello, Idaho, and a cousin from Alaska.

Following a two-week honeymoon in the Canadian Rockies, the Freemans established their home in Palo Alto where Charles is a loan officer in a bank.

The newlyweds telephoned the McKiernons on Labor Day to wish them a happy 35th wedding anniversary. Marjorie and Tom celebrated their special day with dinner at Los Laureles Lodge.

Chapel Guild tea Wednesday

A tea to welcome members—old and new—to a new monthly series of guild activities will be hosted Wednesday beginning at 12:15 p.m. in the Fellowship Hall of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel. The program will be presented by a representative from "Operation Fishnet."

Hostesses will be new club officers including Florence Johnson, president; Gertrude Warner, vice president; Dorothy Edwards, recording secretary; Marge Capen, treasurer; Esther Trevino, corresponding secretary; and Nellie Mirani, director. Marjorie McKiernon, also a director, is chairman of the event and extends an invitation to all Valley ladies to attend.

Impromptu horse show relieves the summer blahs

Just when some Valley young people had lapsed into the "I-don't-have-anything-to-do" phase of their vacation, two resourceful young girls who live on Via Madelena were making award ribbons, drafting the format and writing the rules for "The First Semi-Annual Summer Horse Show."

Sandy Gates and Jaime Marasco converted the Gates pasture into a show arena and issued invitations to riders from 6 to 14 to participate in the show on both horses and ponies.

According to Sandy, the idea originated one day when she and Jaime were horseback riding. Neither of the girls had competed before, but both had viewed Valley shows and from this they put together an event which lasted from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. with a brief break for sack lunches and cupcakes.

Ribbons were given for first through third places for each class. High Point Total Champions were Tami Russell riding "Sundance," first, and Sandy Gates riding "Thunder," second.

Like most successful entrepreneurs, Sandy and Jaime already are planning for next year's show. The girls have sent away for ribbon and trophy catalogs. No matter how sophisticated their competitions become, we are willing to wager that memories of the neighborhood horse show of 1978 always will be special.

Mickey Cummings named champion in horse show

Robles del Rio resident Mickey Cummings was named the champion in recent week-long competition at Santa Rosa in the State Horsemastership Program. The new California State Horseman's Association Western Boy champion was representing Region 10 which he won following a written exam, riding test and grooming test. Vying for the $700 college scholarship were winners of the 15 other regions in the state. An open Western show was judged in conjunction with the finals. Mickey and his mount, "Fontana Gold," placed in six of the seven classes.

Pat and Don Cummings of Carmel Valley are the parents of Mickey, who will be a senior this fall at Carmel High School. The 17-year-old Valley native worked this summer at Farm West in Salinas.

Minnesota principal named assistant superintendent

CARMEL SCHOOL district trustees again reached out of state Tuesday and hired a former student of newly appointed Superintendent Carl Wilsey as assistant superintendent for personnel and instruction.

William Rand, 35, a Minnesota native, will take over the post in November. For the past six years, he has been a high school principal in Forest Lake, Minn., a resort area north of Minneapolis.

Rand received a contract through June 30, 1980 and will be paid $31,915 per year.

He studied under Wilsey at the University of Northern Colorado in Greeley as a doctoral candidate in education in 1976-77. Wilsey was a professor of education there until his appointment as Carmel superintendent in April.

Wilsey called Rand "the brightest young man I've seen." Asked about the coincidence of the past association, Wilsey said only, "It indicates the caliber of people we have at UNC."

He said he remained in the background during the interview process, but that Rand still came out number one in evaluations by parents, staff and the board of trustees.

Rand studied at St. John's University in St. Paul, Minn., and the University of Minnesota in Minneapolis, getting a bachelor's degree in French in 1965. He later earned a master's degree in education and educational administration from the College of St. Thomas in St. Paul.

He taught French in Minneapolis and Forest Lake from 1965 to 1968. He became an assistant high school principal in Forest Lake in 1968 and principal in 1972.

Rand is married and has a daughter, Heather, 5. He and his wife, Margaret, will move to the Monterey Peninsula with their family Nov. 1.

Sheriff's deputy is assigned to Carmel High School post

The Monterey County Sheriff's Department has received state money to put a deputy on the Carmel High School campus for much of the school year.

According to Sgt. Norm Hicks, he only has to meet with the Carmel district board of trustees to work out particulars of the resource officer program.

Hicks met with the board in June when funding for the post still was uncertain. The board asked him to come back with details when the money arrived.

Hicks said Friday the officer would be assigned to the district from December through June. The program is designed to build better attitudes toward law enforcement through the officer's contact with students.

The officer in the program would be in plain clothes. He would work as a counselor to students.

The officer also would teach some classes or sections of classes on society and the law. The trustees were concerned earlier that they might not have control over who the officer would be, particularly if he was going to teach part of the time.

Deputy Ray George has been assigned to the district informally in the past, trying to build friendships with students. Because of this past relationship, Carmel was picked for the pilot program with a full-time school resource officer.

Hicks said the department already has a commitment for second-year funding, which would expand the program to Carmel Middle School.

Eventually, the department wants to have officers working with other county districts.

The grant for the current year totals $14,266.

FIREFIGHTERS check for hot spots after extinguishing the blaze. Damage from the fire was put at more than $55,000. Only one wing of the house was involved.

Blaze sweeps through home; damage estimated at $55,000

MID-VALLEY firefighters contained a residential blaze on Carmel Valley Road east of Del Mesa Carmel on Friday after it caused more than $55,000 in damage.

There were no injuries in the fire, the second handled by the volunteer department this year.

Seventeen paid and volunteer firefighters responded to the 1:58 p.m. fire at the Keith I. Wilson home at 6460 Carmel Valley Road. The County Service Area 43 department also dispatched a truck from its Rio Road station.

According to Mid-Valley Chief Ron Zeise, the blaze destroyed the kitchen, one bedroom, the laundry room, bathroom and hallway in the adobe house. There also was heat and smoke damage in a second wing of the home.

Cause of the fire is under investigation, Zeise said. He said, "It doesn't appear to be arson."

Damage was put at $40,000 to the structure and $15,000 to contents in the building.

The fire was reported by two neighbors who checked to be certain there was no one in the house. They rescued the family dog from a patio area near the house.

Rio Rd. building nixed

The Monterey County Planning Commission formally rejected plans for a three-story office building at the mouth of the Carmel Valley, saying last Wednesday it is too tall for the area.

The commission indicated a month ago it would not approve the three-story design proposed by Herma Smith Curtis and Henry Laskin. The building is planned for the new Carmel Post Office subdivision at Rio Road and Carmel Rancho Boulevard.

The building won a use permit from county Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon on Aug. 10, with design approval in the hands of the planning commission.

The commission turned down the 40½-foot tall building on a 5-0 vote last Wednesday. Commissioners Marc Del Piero, Manuel Jimenez and Charlie Williams were absent.

The developers proposed a three-floor structure with underground parking and a central courtyard. They compromised once on the design by trimming the height from the 45-foot maximum allowed under the zoning to 40½ feet.

Cutting the height won them the endorsement of the Lower Carmel Valley Advisory Committee, but not the planning commission.

Commissioner William

Peters of Carmel Valley has suggested that the height limit be changed in the area to permit only two-story buildings. Most of the offices and retail shops in the Carmel Rancho development are only two stories tall.

Peters said Thursday he has asked the Lower Carmel Valley Advisory Committee to draw up recommendations which would impose a two-story height limit on the entire Carmel Rancho area.

He said he will also bring the matter to the Carmel Valley Master Plan Committee so the two-story limit at the mouth of the Valley will be written into the new master plan.

Schools considering change in busing

Carmel Unified School District will study a change in busing patterns which could mean more pupils for Carmelo School and fewer choices of elementary schools for some district residents at the mouth of Carmel Valley.

At present, parents with children in the Rancho Rio Vista, Carmel Knolls and Carmel Views areas can choose either Carmelo School in Carmel Valley or Carmel River School in the Mission tract area.

But, said Trustee Clayton Neill Jr. on Tuesday, "We can no longer afford the luxury of choice for the parents."

Neill cited the fact that buses going to both schools now drive through the three areas. In Rancho Rio Vista, he said, some residents could watch eight school buses go by each day.

"I don't think we should offer bus service to two different elementary schools from the same neighborhood," Neill said.

Trustee Richard Wilsdon said the main problem appears to be the attendance area boundaries rather than the number of buses in the area.

River School is projected to have 379 pupils this year while only 134 are expected to attend Carmelo School.

Former Superintendent Harris Taylor said last spring that if attendance continued to decline at Carmelo, it might have to be closed next fall as an economy measure.

Superintendent Carl Wilsey will report back to the board on the matter sometime in the future.

Library resumes normal hours

After two months of curtailed hours, the Carmel Valley Public Library is ready to resume its normal 40-hour week, according to librarian Rickie Meehling.

The budget for county libraries was cut by 25 percent after passage of Proposition 13, the state property tax amendment. The library in Carmel Valley reduced its weekly hours to 10 on July 5. Previously it had been open 46 hours per week.

Effective Tuesday, the library will be open Tuesday through Saturday. The hours each day are from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. and from 1:30 to 6 p.m.

Growth policy

Supervisor Michal Moore to meet with homeowners

Monterey County Supervisor Michal Moore will discuss growth management in the county and the new water district at the quarterly meeting of the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association later this month.

Moore will be the featured speaker at the meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 27. The talk is planned at 8 p.m. at Hidden Valley Music Seminars in Carmel Valley Village.

Moore's Fourth Supervisorial District includes the Upper Carmel Valley. He is the supervisors' representative to the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District and served on the committee which drafted the county's proposed growth management policy.

According to CVPOA President Douglas Despard, the organization will also hire its first regular employee in October.

Mary Silliman, a former assistant to Supervisor Sam Farr of Carmel and Assemblyman Henry Mello (D-Watsonville), will help organize and coordinate volunteer activities for the CVPOA during the month. She will be paid $500 for 100 hours of work.

The organization's board of directors originally wanted to hire her for three months on a trial basis before deciding if the job should be a permanent part-time position.

Miss Silliman has other commitments in November and December, however.

The quarterly meeting is open to all present and potential members. The CVPOA membership rolls now top the 1,000 mark.

Sigourney wins post by default

Jack Sigourney of Carmel Valley will represent Ward 5 on the Monterey Peninsula Regional Park District board of directors for another four years, as no opponents filed to run for his seat. Sigourney's name will appear on the Nov. 7 ballot as the only candidate for the post. The new term will begin Jan. 8, 1979.

Filing for the seat, representing Carmel, Carmel Valley, Pebble Beach and Big Sur, closed Aug. 25.

The Monterey County Board of Supervisors delayed until Sept. 26 their Growth policy hearing delayed until Sept. 26

public hearing on a proposed countywide growth management policy.

The board postponed the hearing Tuesday afternoon after taking nearly 4½ hours to hear complaints about rapid growth in the Toro Park area on Highway 68.

The board wanted to devote more time to a full public hearing on the issue. The hearing was rescheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

The policy was recommended by a board committee including Supervisors Michal Moore of Monterey and Edwin Norris of Salinas, Planning Commissioner William Peters of Carmel Valley and Planning Director Ed DeMars.

While it would not have the force of law, it recommends that growth be concentrated in existing urban areas and only expanded to new areas when services can be provided for the residents.

It also would ban polluting industries from the county. Supervisor Sam Farr of Carmel told the other board members that "this policy doesn't do a darn thing" by itself. He asked that they think about potential ordinances to implement its policies before they meet again on the matter in three weeks.

Schools will spend $6 million this year

Carmel school district trustees formally adopted a $6.25 million budget for the 1978-79 school year Tuesday. It reflected cuts of more than $1 million.

The overall budget is down 8.3 per cent from the previous year. The trustees also used slightly more than $400,000 in reserves to forestall additional budget cuts.

Walter Hinton, assistant superintendent for business, said if the reserves had not been available, the district would have been faced with a 14.1 per cent cutback.

The cuts include a reduction of 9.5 teaching positions and some non-teaching employees. Budget cuts were approved by the trustees last month after parent groups and district employees reviewed the tentative budget looking for potential reductions.

First-day enrollment was down by 200

First-day enrollment in Carmel schools was down from last year, but district officials expect attendance to rise in the next few weeks.

A total of 2,684 pupils showed up at the eight district schools Tuesday, below the estimated 2,873 forecast for the year. About 2,900 pupils attended on the first day last fall.

Among the schools, only Tularcitos elementary campus had more pupils on the first day than had been predicted. A total of 333 showed up, compared to 324 estimated for the year.

Figures for other district schools, with estimated attendance for the year in parentheses, are: Carmel High School, 1,056 (1,119); Carmel Middle School, 629 (650); River School, 351 (379); Carmelo School, 123 (134); Woods School, 135 (168); Captain Cooper School, 50 (69); and continuation high school, 7 (30).

Two hurt in mishap

Two Carmel youths were injured Saturday when their car ran off Carmel Valley Road and overturned near Carmel Valley Village.

Susan Marie Sturges, 17, of 2827 Pradera Road and Chris Clark, 16, of 24383 San Mateo, both told the California Highway Patrol they would see their own physicians for injuries suffered in the accident at 1:30 a.m.

According to the CHP, Miss Sturges was driving westbound on Carmel Valley Road, west of Panetta Road, when she lost control of the car. It went off the road, crossed the highway and rolled down a 100-foot embankment.

New principal to be hired

Tularcitos and Carmelo Schools will have a new principal by early October under a hiring timetable approved by Carmel school district trustees Tuesday.

The board accepted "with deep regret" the resignation of Principal Phil Smith last week. In a statement read to the public at Tuesday's meeting, Superintendent Carl Wilsey said the reasons for the resignation are "purely personal." The small $1,200 stipend he would have been paid as principal of two schools was "a contributing factor to his decision," Wilsey added.

Smith will remain on as principal until a replacement is found.

The district will begin interviews for the post Oct. 5 with a committee of parents and teachers from the two schools, one district administrator and an elementary school principal reviewing five to 10 interview candidates selected by Wilsey.

Based on the interviews, the top two or three candidates will be interviewed by Wilsey and the board of trustees Oct. 7. The new principal is scheduled to be hired when the board meets Oct. 10.

Ranch tennis plan goes to Slimmon

Eight tennis courts for Carmel Valley Ranch and a reduction in the number of units at a proposed subdivision near Tierra Grande will be on the agendas of Monterey County planning officials next week.

Zoning Administrator Robert Slimmon is scheduled to rule on a use permit for the tennis courts and extra parking at Carmel Valley Ranch on Thursday at 4:15 p.m.

The county planning commission will take up the Mercurio subdivision in the hills north of the Mid-Valley Shopping Center when it meets Wednesday at 9:05 a.m.

Carmel Valley Ranch, also in the Mid-Valley area, has Specific Plan approval for 12 tennis courts, only four of which have been built. The additional courts would be built to the west of the existing courts at the ranch tennis club.

Land for the courts was graded two weeks ago.

The Mercurio subdivision was turned down by the planning commission on May 31 because of environmental problems and a density deemed too great for the land. The original proposal called for 21 lots on 28.5 acres.

Developer Antone Mercurio scaled that down to 17 lots before appealing the planning commission decision to the board of supervisors. The board decided that the smaller subdivision should go back for review to the commission before it would rule on the matter.

The supervisors indicated they will approve the subdivision at a lower density than 21 lots.

The subdivision will be back before the board on Sept. 19 if Mercurio appeals the new planning commission decision.

GRADING WORK is substantially complete for eight additional tennis courts at Carmel Valley Ranch east of the Mid-Valley Shopping Center. The work was done although a use permit for the courts will not be considered until later in the month. Rapid earthmoving operations also have leveled the golf course site and dug out the two large golf course lakes where treated effluent from the development's planned on-site sewage plant would be stored.

Grading is near completion at Carmel Valley Ranch

Grading for the Carmel Valley Ranch golf course should be finished in the next week according to Ernie Vossler, vice president of Landmark Land Co., developers of the project.

The extensive earthmoving work also included grading for additional tennis courts on the property—for which the company has a grading permit but has not yet obtained a use permit.

Paul Campos, a Monterey County building inspector at the Monterey office, said last week that while "technically they shouldn't have done that grading yet, it would not hurt that much."

The company has asked to put eight courts for the ranch tennis club at the east end of the four existing courts. This would complete the 12 courts allowed under the ranch Specific Plan.

A use permit hearing on the court addition is planned later this month.

Golf course grading included digging the two large lakes designed to hold treated wastewater from an on-site sewage treatment plant to service residential units planned for the ranch.

The course is expected to open for play in two years, under the timetable presented by the Landmark firm.

The company will submit a tentative map this fall for the first 20 homes and 140 townhouse units proposed for the ranch. A total of 500 homes and a 100-unit resort lodge are envisioned in the ranch Specific Plan.

Motorists collide with horse

Two Carmel Valley residents were injured late Saturday when their car collided with a horse on Carmel Valley Road, triggering a rear-end collision with a car behind it.

Leanne Eberle, 27, of Southbank Road in Robles del Rio, was in critical condition in the Community Hospital intensive care unit this week following the accident. She was a passenger in the car driven by Craig Christopher Fletcher, 27. The accident happened at 11:05 p.m.

Fletcher suffered minor injuries and was treated and released from Community Hospital.

According to the California Highway Patrol, Fletcher was traveling westbound on Carmel Valley Road, just east of Schulte Road, when several horses ran across the road. Fletcher struck one, tossing the animal into the air and down on the windshield and roof of his car.

Robert M. Faul, 26, of 28935 Robinson Canyon Road, Carmel Valley, was driving behind Fletcher and was unable to brake in time to avoid a collision. He was uninjured.

River Inn to pursue plan to expand motel

Owners of the Carmel River Inn on Highway 1 will ask for a master plan amendment to permit expansion of the motel when the matter goes to the Monterey County Planning Commission on Wednesday at 3:15 p.m.

The planning commission found the expansion request in conflict with the adopted area general plan when the issue came before it on May 31.

Attorney Myron Etienne Jr., owner of the 21-unit motel and cottage complex between Oliver Road and the Carmel River, wants to have the land rezoned to permit an additional 45 motel units. Expansion plans also call for a new swimming pool and four tennis courts.

Earlier owners of the property sought to build condominiums on the land, but were rebuffed in 1972 and 1973. The property is zoned and listed in the general plan as the site for residential development.

The planning commission will decide next week whether to set the master plan amendment request for a hearing in the future. The earliest it could be reviewed would be November, according to commission policy for dealing with master plan revisions.

Parents invited to meet with superintendent

Carmel school superintendent Dr. Carl Wilsey will meet with River School parents for a question-and-answer session Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school library.

Wilsey will discuss his philosophies of education and the future direction of the district.

2,500 anti-Marriott signatures

MORE THAN 2,500 people have signed a petition against construction of the proposed Marriott Lodge in Carmel Valley, according to The Alliance, an umbrella group of environmentalist organizations formed earlier this year to oppose the lodge plan. The lodge would be situated near the mouth of Carmel Valley on a portion of the Rancho Canada golf links. The signatures will be presented to the Monterey County supervisors Oct. 3, when they are scheduled to consider approving the resort hotel plan. One petition station has been operated on and off for several months at the Village Corner restaurant in Carmel. Pictured here is Courtney Hanson singing the petition and volunteer John Ax manning the table. (Michael Stang photo)

Filmmakers Walter Gorey, John Hopkins and John Penney prepare to shoot from the tailgate of their station wagon

Young filmmakers focus on Carmel tourism

FOUR young local filmmakers have decided to turn the camera toward tourism and the problems it creates.

Carmel Blues, a five-minute short subject, offers no solutions, but it does poke fun at tourists. Most of the footage was shot here last week.

It zooms in on tourists licking ice cream cones. It pans a beach crowded with people. It focuses on the traffic congestion.

Walter Gorey, 21, an apprentice carpenter from Carmel, directed the film. He has acted in and written scripts for other homemade movies, but never directed before. He combined talents with three buddies and will finish the film at a cost of $500.

When the editing is completed in November, the film will be available at no charge for local showings, Gorey said.

The film is being made both as a project for a Monterey Peninsula College film course and as a "calling card" for Gorey's application to the film school at the University of Southern California, he said.

I'M NOT saying I have any answers. But I've lived here 18 years and seen Carmel really deteriorate. Film is the best way for me to comment on that," he explained.

The others helping produce the film are John

They work in a garage

Hopkins of Carmel, and John Penney and Chris Hopkins of Carmel Valley. All three are 21. They work in a converted garage in Hopkins' Carmel home. It took more than a year and $20,000 to convert the garage into a film and recording studio.

Inside is technical editing and sound equipment, special lighting, cameras, dollies and elaborate safeguards to protect the property, including a sonic alarm system like those in many banks.

The studio is used primarily for editing. Most of the filming is shot on location, Gorey said. But the recording—usually music or narration—is always done back at the studio.

They film with a 16mm camera, the kind used for television documentaries and commercials. Most feature-length movies are filmed in 35mm, Gorey said.

THE FOUR men made home movies together at Carmel High School in 1975. Last year they put together a "classic silent film," Gorey said, called Food o' the Gods. The spoof on junk food is a half-hour film which cost them more than $1,000 to make. Most of the expense is the unprocessed film which costs about $4 per minute. The processing is an additional expense which can tack on another $100.

Music influences Gorey's work. The second movie he made last year is a five-minute visual interpretation of the Beatles' song Norwegian Wood. It is a parody of the heavily symbolic films of the '60s, he said.

Carmel Blues also is scored with music. Elton John's One Horse Town, a song that starts slow then rises to a booming crescendo, sets the tone of the film.

The film begins in the morning on the empty Carmel Beach. A close-up of a foot hitting the sand breaks the tranquility. As the day progresses and the tourist numbers grow, the shots run faster and faster. In slide-show fashion, some shots are only fractions of a second apart.

The film zooms in on tourists asking directions. It shows visitors taking pictures. The movie ends with a flashback to the ocean. The sun quietly sets. The camera pans back to a garbage can overflowing with trash.

"It shows what people can do to a place by over-enjoying it," Gorey explained. "But no matter how I show Carmel in the film, I still love this place."

MOST members of the group work second jobs. Penney is a projectionist at the Carmel Village Theatre. He is a former film director at KMST-TV. Chris Hopkins does garden work and John Hopkins is the only full-time filmmaker.

Rancho Bonita verdict delayed

The Monterey County Planning Commission delayed consideration of a 10-unit subdivision proposed for Carmel Valley after the developer submitted additional environmental information on the project last Wednesday.

The commission will decide on Sept. 27 whether to require an Environmental Impact Report (EIR) on the Rancho Bonita subdivision planned just east of the Valley Hills shopping area.

The subdivision is adjacent to a proposed 73-unit condominium and single-family home development.

The county planning staff had recommended that the 10-acre Rancho Bonita proposal be included in the EIR for the Valley Hills subdivision because of the cumulative effect the smaller project would have on the total Valley environment.

But Clarke Herbert, one of the partners in the development firm of Roglar Associates Inc., submitted 20 pages of additional background data last Wednesday on the project's impacts, hoping to avoid the necessity of preparing an EIR.

The commission delayed the environmental hearing on the project until the end of the month to give staff a chance to review the material. But Herbert was told an EIR may still be required for the development.

Upcoming membership tea in the Valley for Panhellenic society

Monterey Bay Panhellenic will open its 1978-79 social calendar with a membership tea at the Carmel Valley home of Mrs. George Toole on Saturday, Sept. 23, from 2 to 4 p.m.

The organization was chartered in 1954 and is made up of alumnae of National Panhellenic Conference college sororities living in Monterey County.

Turn lane costs are divided

A cost-sharing formula for constructing a left-turn lane at Ford and Carmel Valley roads in the Village was approved Tuesday by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors.

Under the plan, Valley Lodge owner Peter Coakley will put up between $500 and $1,000 for a one-eighth share of the work, with the Village Houses condominium subdivision to pay 25 per cent of the cost. The remainder would be provided out of county general funds. Both the lodge and the subdivision are located near the intersection.

Increased traffic at the intersection and the safety hazard posed because there is no left-turn lane off Carmel Valley Road pushed the project up on the county public works department's priority list.

The road improvement will begin once the Village Houses project is underway.

White House fellowships are offered

Representative Leon E. Panetta, D-Monterey, has announced that applications for the 1979-80 White House Fellowship program are now available.

Between 14 and 19 persons in the early stages of their careers will be selected to serve as special assistants to cabinet members and to participate in an extensive education program consisting of off-the-record seminar meetings with national government leaders.

"This program brings into the federal government the vigor of youth and the freshness of new ideas and approaches," Panetta said. "The individuals selected return to their former careers after their year in Washington with a thorough understanding and working knowledge of the process of government at the highest executive level."

Information about the program can be obtained by writing to the President's Commission on White House Fellowships, Washington, D.C. 20415 or by contacting Panetta at 437 Cannon House Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20515.

Seventeen of 25 sororities are represented in the membership and members attended more than 30 different colleges and universities.

The tea is one of six meetings a year, including two functions with husbands and escorts. It will be at the Toole home, 2 Middle Canyon Road, Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Toole is the local delegate to the Northern California Council of Alumnae Panhellenics, and has been president of the NCCAP for two years. She has been a board member of that group for 10 years.

Local officers are Mrs. Donald Bradshaw, president; Mrs. Walter Burde and Mrs. Irwin Johnson, co-vice presidents; Mrs. Lester Johnson, recording secretary; Mrs.

Donald Boyer Jr.,
corresponding secretary;
Mrs. W. E. McCloud,
treasurer; and Mrs. Eugene
Hilton and Mrs. Leonard

Gardeners to meet at Long's

The Men's Garden Club of the Monterey Peninsula will present its fall sale of indoor and outdoor plants Saturday, Sept. 9, in front of Long's Drug Store in Carmel Center, Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel. Hours are 9 a.m.-5 p.m.

Among the hundreds of plants to be sold will be roses and perennials from the club's award-winning Ring Around the Roses exhibit at the Monterey County Fair. All the plants are grown and donated by club members.

Garden club members suggest that shoppers come early for the best selection or between 4 and 5 p.m. for bargains.

The Men's Garden Club meets on the second Wednesday of each month at 8 p.m. at the Brinton's garden department, Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel. Everyone is welcome to attend.

For more information, phone 624-7727.

'Trek' convention begins

Star Trek fans will gather for a Star Trek Festival Saturday, Sept. 9, at the Monterey Conference Center, 1 Portola Plaza, Monterey.

Actor George Takei, who played Lt. Sulu on the television series, will answer audience questions and sign autographs, and a series episode and uncut "blooper" reels will be shown, as well as a film about the $15 million Star Trek movie now in production.

The program begins at 2 p.m., although the doors and Star Trek souvenir stands will open at 1 p.m.

The festival is produced by Space, the Final Frontier, Inc.

Admission is $5 for adults and $3 for children.

Baking demonstrations planned in The Barnyard

Fruit muffins and scones will be the subjects of cooking demonstrations this weekend at the Peppercorn in The Barnyard, Highway 1 and Rio Road, Carmel. Everyone is welcome to attend the free programs.

The muffin demonstration will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, Sept. 9, and continue through the early afternoon. The scone demonstration is scheduled for the same hours Sunday, Sept. 10.

very many things wrong with the hind-quarters to have a horse that excels at nothing except eating dinner. You too can own a bum steer.

With the measuring tape, measure from the point of the hip to the point of the buttocks to the point of the gaskin to the point of the hock to midway down the hind pastern. These are all equal distances on a good horse.

More important is the angulation between these bony structures. It should be as great as possible. Measure this by measuring from the point of the shoulder to the point of the buttocks. This should equal or exceed his height as measured from the ground to the point of the withers. The greater this distance exceeds the horse's height (those hindquarter bones measuring equal), the greater is the likelihood that he can really get his rear in gear.

Eyeball the gaskin area. The more width the horse can muster in the gaskin and stifle areas, the more weight he can carry. Horses that are scrawny here can only carry scrawny riders.

As long as you're standing there with a measuring tape in your hand, measure around the horse's barrel at two places. Measure the heart girth and the stifle area girth around the rib cage. These two should be equal on a horse with substance.

Notice in all this discussion of conformation, we have not mentioned head or neck? It's all very nice to have a clean, arched neck that fits neatly not meatily onto the body. It's peachy to have a fine, dry, breezy head. But it doesn't cut the mustard unless the horse has the bod to match.

A person who buys a horse for its beautiful head is going to be struck with a sour apple by the first sharp horse trader passing by.

Jamesburg Players stage 'Music Man'

The Jamesburg Players production of The Music Man opens Thursday, Sept. 7, at the Hidden Valley Theatre, Ford Road and Carmel Valley Road, Carmel Valley Village.

The play will be staged Thursday-Sunday, Sept. 7-10 and Sept. 14-17. Curtain is at 8 p.m. except Sunday, Sept. 10, when the matinee begins at 2 p.m.

The Music Man is the saga of Harold Hill, who arrives in River City, Iowa, to organize a boys' band and falls for Marian the librarian. Book, music and lyrics are by Meredith Wilson.

The Jamesburg Players have assembled a cast of 80 for the production. The players are a group of residents of the Upper Carmel Valley/Jamesburg area who are trying to raise money to build a school for their children, who must ride buses many hours each day to reach local schools. Their previous productions include Oklahoma, Guys and Dolls and The Fantasticks.

A special opening night party will include champagne, Dixieland music and entertainment by the Abalone Stompers Thursday, Sept. 7. Admission is $10 for opening night and $5 for other performances. Tickets are available at Abinante Music, 425 Alvarado St., Monterey; Wills Fargo Restaurant, Carmel Valley Road, Carmel Valley; Carmel Valley Natural Foods, Village Center, Carmel Valley; the General Store, Dolores and Fifth, Carmel; and Village Liquors, 8 Delfino Place, Carmel Valley.

JOHN DOTSON, 28, has been named editor of "Dideann," Carmel's first literary quarterly. Submissions of poetry, fiction and non-fiction are now being accepted for the premiere issue scheduled for December.

Literary magazine is started

The premiere issue of Carmel's first literary quarterly, Dideann, is scheduled for December publication, according to R. Wright Campbell, the Carmel novelist who started the magazine.

Campbell has named John Dotson, a Carmel resident and teacher, as editor. "Dideann" is a Gaelic word that means refuge or haven. "Carmel may be distinctive in its literary offerings. That's what we want to find out," Dotson said.

Submission of poetry, fiction and non-fiction should be sent to P.O. Box 159, Carmel 93921. A self-addressed, stamped envelope must be enclosed to ensure return of the manuscript. Typewritten manuscripts are requested.

Mostly local work will be solicited, although manuscripts from outside Carmel will be considered, Dotson said. Payment will be in copies.

"This is the first real forum for serious writers in Carmel. It is not a showcase of a 'precious' magazine. It is for good writers; writers who have shed blood for their work," Dotson said.

Dotson, 28, teaches communications and creative writing at Santa Catalina School. He received degrees in communications and philosophy from Northwestern University in Chicago.

Laguna Seca competition

'Cycle races begin on Friday

Kenny Roberts, a 25-year-old motorcycle rider from Modesto dubbed "King Kenny" by his fans, will try to overcome Venezuelan Johnny Cecotto's 16-point lead in the battle for the world 750cc crown at the Champion Spark Plug 200 races at Laguna Seca Raceway Friday-Sunday, Sept. 8-10.

Roberts won the 500cc world crown Aug. 20 at the West German Grand Prix after a battle with two-time champion Barry Sheene of England that spanned two continents and 11 races in as many countries. He's the first American to hold the title, called the "Blue Ribbon" in motorcycle sport.

The Champion Spark Plug 200 750cc race is the only World Championship motorcycle race in the United States. Also to be run in the three days of racing on the twisting 1.9-mile track at Laguna Seca are an international lightweight 250cc race, a Superbike Production race and a Sidecar race.

Practice rounds begin at 10 a.m. Friday; practice and the International Lightweight final are scheduled 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Saturday; and the Superbike race, two-heat Formula 750 race and Sidecar race are scheduled Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. after morning practice rounds that begin at 9 a.m.

Also expected to compete in the Champion Spark Plug 200 are current World 750 Champion Steve Baker from Bellingham, Wash., and Patrick Pons and Christian Sarron from Paris.

Laguna Seca has been the scene of an American Motorcycle Association Grand National Championship road race since 1972. The Champion Spark Plug Co. took over sponsorship of the event in 1976 and in 1977 the race was awarded world championship status by the Federation Internationale Motocycliste, the international body that governs all international motorcycle sports. Nearly $70,000 in cash and contingency money is at stake in the Formula 750.

Last year's race was won by Roberts' protege, Skip Aksland, and in 1976 Roberts finished second to Baker. Roberts tried for the world championships this year in the 250cc, 500cc and 750cc classifications in the 35-race world championship series. He has won the 500cc championship, is close in the 750cc race and has dropped the 250cc race because of the pressure involved in the other classes, although he is still ranked third in the lower class.

Advance tickets are $3 Friday, $4 Saturday, $9 Sunday and $12 for a three-day combination. Gate prices are $3 Friday, $5 Saturday, $10 Sunday and $15 for the three-day combination. A discount three-day ticket for students and military personnel is available for $10 and VIP tickets, which include gate, paddock and grandstands, are $20 in advance and $25 at the gate. Paddock tickets are $6 Saturday and Sunday and grandstand tickets are $3 each day.

Tickets are available at Macy's in Del Monte Shopping Center, Monterey; Ticketron in Roos Atkins, Del Monte Shopping Center; and at the office of the Sports Car Racing Association of the Monterey Peninsula (SCRAMP), at the Fairgrounds Travelodge, 2030 Fremont, Monterey.

For more information, phone 373-1811.

Sierra hike on Sunday

Members of the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club will combine work and play this weekend on an outing to the Forest of Nisene Marks Sunday, Sept. 10, where they will enjoy the cool shade of the redwoods while working on a new trail started last spring. Members of other chapters and other interested persons are welcome to join the outing.

The park ranger will provide guidance and tools for the trail-building project. Meet at Cinema 70 in the Del Monte Shopping Center parking lot, Monterey, at 7 a.m. to form carpools or at the Porter picnic area in the park at 8 a.m. Bring lunch, water and gloves.

For more information, phone leader Merrill Jones, 624-3052 evenings.

Play debut in Carmel

CAROL BIALEK of Carmel tells her sisters about her unsuccessful marriage and what life was like in Nebraska.

Six months have passed since judges selected the first winner of Carmel's Festival of Firsts playwriting contest. And next Thursday at 8 p.m.
Scenes and Revelations, a play about four Mennonite women, debuts in Sunset Theatre.

Back in June, more than 100 actors came to audition for the play. The final cast started rehearsals July 24.
Since then, virtually every weeknight has been devoted to polishing the play.

Carmel offered a $2,000
prize for the best play.
Judges gave the award to Elan David Garonzik, 27, of Washington, D.C. Garonzik is a playwright and magazine editor for the American Federation of Teachers.

He will be in the audience opening night, according to Richard Tyler, director
Sunset Community and Cultural Center.

According to Tyler, the premiere renews a theatrical heritage that dates back to 1910 in Carmel when plays debuted locally. The play will run through Sept. 23.
Tickets are $4.50 and $3.50 for students and senior citizens.

Invitation to Valley horsemen

Carmel Valley riders are invited to enter the 13th annual Western Horse Show
Sunday, Sept. 24, at the Community Horsemen's Arena, Robertson Park in Livermore.

The show will benefit the Children's Hospital Medical Center. It is sponsored by Mulberry Branch and is open free to spectators from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Entry information for the Junior and Open Horse
Show is available by writing
Jean Payne, 756 Hamilton
Way, Pleasanton 94566
(telephone 415-846-2073) or by calling event chairman
Joyce Morrison at 415-447-8226.

Barbara Oakford of Sloughouse will judge the show. The events are sanctioned by the Nor-Cal
Western Association; Pacific Coast Hunters, Jumpers and Stock Horse Association; and the California State
Horsemen's Association.

ANNOUNCING

The New "Money Market" Certificate

New 6 month certificate paying $\frac{1}{4}\%$ more than 6 month
treasury bills. . .

$\frac{1}{4}\%$ more than any bank.

For top short-term returns, save the purchase commissions you've been paying on treasury bills. Come to Monterey Savings and earn a full $\frac{1}{4}\%$ more than T-bills and there's no purchase commission. (The rate's been running a little more than 7%, but check with us for the latest quote.) Remember, whatever banks are permitted to pay on this new 6 month certificate, we're permitted to pay $\frac{1}{4}\%$ more. . . and we do! \$10,000 minimum with full F.S.L.I.C. coverage to \$40,000 per individual, automatic.

And. . .

Monterey Savings
Super Certificate

Double your money in 8 years and 8 months

Effective annual yield, 8.33% $1,000 minimum

Never before could you earn so much on such a modest minimum. Double your money in just 104 months. $1,000 gets you $2,000. . . 5 gets you 10. . . 10 gets you 20 — you name it. Interest with principal insured to $40,000. Minimum term 8 years. So, come to your nearest Monterey Savings office and open your 8% Savings Certificate account today.

Federal Regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from any Certificate Account.
